News flash! Precision like detail can still be created in NYC. Anna Sui's Fall Winter 2012 collection is proof. There were the requisite throwback pieces that had a 1960's and 1970's flare, the round spectacle sunglasses, the tassle necklaces, the neon blue cat eye. But the bitty floral prints and textured tweeds showed hand work not usually seen.

There were some fun bits where postcards saying "Anna Sui" floated on cardigans or owl hats nested on heads, but closer looks at things like the button plackets and a critics eye could see meticulous attention to detail such as laser cut butterflies.
